

Global Connections: Natural Disasters Getting Organized

Who is your Spokesperson? _____

Who is your Communicator? _____

Who is your Timekeeper? _____

Who is your Developer? _____

Do you have more than 4 group members or different ideas for group roles?

What is your group's responsibility to the class? What content are you supposed to deliver? (i.e. history, human impact, etc..)?

What are some of the questions that your virtual peers have asked you?

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.

Where can you look for answers to these questions and to learn more about your topic?

Are there experts in your families, community or online that you could contact and learn with?

Do you think your peers are afraid of your natural disaster? What can you tell them to help them understand?

What are some misconceptions that your virtual peers might have?

What could you create that could help you answer the questions of your peers and share your experiences and knowledge? Can you think of a fun, creative and engaging way to teach them?

Briefly outline your group's final product below. How will you grab the attention of your audience at the beginning? How will you organize your information and tell a good story with a beginning, middle and end? Feel free to use Inspiration or Bubbl.us to brainstorm and KidsVid Storyboards to outline specific sections or parts of your product.
